DEFENDING AGAINST A DISORDERLY CONDUCT CHARGE

IN JUSTICE OF THE PEACE (JP) OR MUNICIPAL COURT

A GUIDE FOR YOUTH & PARENTS

Texas RioGrande Legal Aid, Inc. (TRLA) provides free legal assistance to students from low-income households. To apply for our services, call 1-888-988-9996. TRLA cannot accept all cases. Even if we cannot represent you, we may be able to provide you with advice.

In Texas, Disorderly Conduct cases are heard in Justice of the Peace (JP) or municipal courts. These courts will not automatically provide you with a free lawyer, but you can ask the court to appoint one to you. You can use the Child Defendant's Pro Se Motion and Order on Child Defendant's Pro Se Motion for Appointment of Counsel in this guide to ask the court to appoint you a lawyer. The judge may appoint you an attorney if you ask them to.

Disorderly Conduct laws are complicated, and convictions have serious consequences. Never ignore an order to appear in court! A "no-show" can lead to second criminal charge for Failure to Appear in court. This guide provides basic information to help you understand the law, your options, and defenses.

In this guide, you will find answers to the following questions:

- 1) What is "Disorderly Conduct?"
- 2) What are some of my rights as a defendant?
- 3) What should I do to defend myself in court?
- 4) What are some of my options to fight the charge against me?
- 5) What strategies can I use when meeting with a prosecutor?
- 6) How should I talk to a judge?
- 7) What can I bring to court to help my case?
- 8) What if the Disorderly Conduct charge is related to a major issue in my life?
- 9) What if the "victim" agrees that the case should be dropped?
- 10) What if the prosecutor does not dismiss my case or makes me a bad offer?
- 11) What happens if I plead guilty or no contest?
- 12) What is Deferred Disposition?
- 13) How do I avoid a fine or court cost I cannot afford to pay?
- 14) How do I avoid being ordered to community service I cannot complete?

1) What is "Disorderly Conduct?"

Common types of Disorderly Conduct are: "Using abusive language;" "Abusing or threatening a person in an obviously offensive manner;" "Making an offensive gesture;" and "Fighting." To see other types of Disorderly Conduct, look in the Texas Penal Code under section 42.01.

It is important to pay attention to how you were charged, because the State has to prove different things for each charge. Also, keep in mind that the same activity can be charged in different ways. For example, fighting can be charged as Assault or as Disorderly Conduct.

For the State to prove most types of Disorderly Conduct charges against you, it must prove beyond a reasonable doubt all of the following:

- a. You were 12 or older when you engaged in the "disorderly conduct."
- b. You intentionally or knowingly did the act you are accused of committing. If your conduct was an accident, then you can argue that you did not behave intentionally or knowingly.
- c. The act happened in a public place (sidewalks, schools, etc., but not in a home).

d. Other facts depending on the type of Disorderly Conduct:

- Using Abusive Language – Here, the State must prove that:
  - You used “fighting words.” These are words that would cause a reasonable person to fight or have a violent reaction.AND
  - Your words are the kind that would “incite an immediate breach of peace,” that is, they could result in an actual fight. That usually means you have to be face-to-face or close to someone.

Example: You call Sara on her home phone and cuss her out. Then you hang up. That is probably not Disorderly Conduct. Even if you used “fighting words,” that would not be considered “inciting an immediate breach of the peace,” since you and Sara are not face-to-face or anywhere close to each other. But, be careful! Just because your actions might not fall under the definition of disorderly conduct does not mean that you will not be guilty of a different crime!

- Making an Offensive Gesture or Display – Here, the State must prove that:
  - The offensive gesture or display amounts to “fighting words.” That is, it would cause the average person to react violently.AND
  - The gesture or display is the kind that would “incite an immediate breach of peace,” that is, it could result in an actual fight. That usually requires you to be face-to-face or close to someone. See the example in the chart later in this guide.
- Abusing or Threatening a Person in an Obviously Offensive Manner – The State must again prove that:
  - Your conduct amounts to “fighting words,” that is, that your actions would cause the average person to react violently.AND
  - Your conduct is the kind that would “incite an immediate breach of peace,” that is, it could result in an actual fight. That usually requires you to be face-to-face or close to someone.
- Fighting – Use a common-sense meaning of “fighting” as your guide. Just because two people throwing punches have bad aim and miss does not mean they were not involved in a fight.

Keep in mind that even if the State can prove all of these facts, you may still have a good defense – for example, if you were provoked or acted in self-defense.

2) What are some of my rights as a defendant?

- Right to be informed of the charges against you – It is a good idea to ask the clerk at the court for a copy of your case file before your court date so that you can be prepared.
- Right to be considered innocent until proven guilty beyond a reasonable doubt.
  - To prove guilt, the State must present evidence to the court.
You can ask the prosecutor to see that evidence before your hearing.
  - Examples of “evidence” could include:
    - A statement from you admitting your guilt.
    - A witness statement saying you started the fight, used abusive language, etc.
    - A police report.
    - Video footage of the incident.
- Right to have an attorney represent you.

- Right to a trial by a jury or judge.
- Right to choose a plea – 1) not guilty; 2) guilty; or 3) no contest.
  - Not guilty – Pleading not guilty means you deny guilt, and that you want to exercise your right to a trial.
  - Guilty or No Contest – By pleading guilty, you give up your right to a trial and accept the conviction. A NO CONTEST PLEA IS VERY SIMILAR TO A GUILTY PLEA, because both result in a conviction.

3) What should I do to defend myself in court?

Get organized! Follow the example in this chart, and fill in the facts of your case. Ask yourself:
 1) Can the State make its case against me by proving each part of the definition of Disorderly Conduct?
 and 2) If so, do I have a defense?

EXAMPLE A: FIGHTING.

The State must prove:	Facts of example case	Facts of your Case	Possible defenses in example case	Your possible defenses
1) You committed the act intentionally or knowingly.	Megan and Kristina jumped me in the hallway for refusing to be in their gang. They punched me in the stomach and face and I hit back. The principal charged all of us with disorderly conduct for fighting.
2) The act happened in public.	That happened at school.
3) You were fighting.	I swung to defend myself.		I acted in self-defense.

EXAMPLE B: MAKING AN OFFENSIVE GESTURE.

The State must prove:	Facts of example case	Facts of your Case	Possible defenses in example case	Your possible defenses
1) You committed the act intentionally or knowingly.	I flipped off my principal behind her back.
2) The act happened in public.	That happened at school.
3) The gesture amounted to fighting words.	Flipping someone off is like saying “F--- you.”
4) The gesture was of a kind that would incite the immediate breach of peace.	The principal and I were not face-to-face, and she did not see me flip her off. Someone later told her that I did.		The principal did not see me when I flipped her off, so she would not have had a reason to react at the time that it happened.

4) What are some of my options to fight the charge against me?

If you believe you are innocent or have a good defense, plead not guilty at your court date and let the clerk at the court know you wish to speak with a prosecutor. Pleading not guilty means the court will set a date for trial in your case, but that does not necessarily mean you will go to trial.

Before your trial court date, you should talk with a prosecutor to ask if he or she will dismiss your case. Find out from the court clerk when prosecutors are available to meet with you. If you plan to talk to a prosecutor, then it is best to plead not guilty. You can always change your plea later if you want to want to make an agreement with the prosecutor.

5) What strategies can I use when meeting with a prosecutor?

- Arrive early – Plan on having time to park and find the courtroom.
- Dress appropriately – Dress like you work in an office (Males: slacks and tucked-in shirts – no hats!; Females: blouse and slacks or a dress or skirt to the knees).
- Prepare, in advance, what you are going to say. Keep your presentation short, and focus on the important facts. Be honest, but keep in mind that you do not have to answer every question that the prosecutor asks. In some cases, it may best not to admit to wrongdoing since your statement could be used against you in court. Practice and get feedback.
- Be polite, even if you disagree with the prosecutor. You will not help yourself if you argue or are rude.
- Remember to let the prosecutor know if you have any defenses.
- Present evidence to the prosecutor if you want to show that you were the victim, not the aggressor. (For example, if someone witnessed the fight and saw the other person hit you first, ask that witness to write a letter saying so.)

6) How should I talk to a judge?

- Speak Confidently – Speak loudly enough to be heard. Look people in the eye.
- Do Not Lie – If you do not know the answer to a question, say “I don’t know.”
- Be Respectful – Address the judge as “Your Honor.” Use “sir” and “ma’am.”

7) What can I bring to court to help my case?

Prosecutors will be more open to negotiate, and judges will be more open to dismiss your case, if it is the first time you have been charged with a crime or if you present evidence of your good character. For example, bring letters of support from a teacher, community leader or employer and copies of good grades and any awards. Also, tell the prosecutor or judge if the situation at school has changed in a way that will positively impact your behavior in the future. For example, if you are getting counseling at school to help you with anger problems, bring a note from your school saying so.

8) What if my Disorderly Conduct charge is related to a major issue in my life?

Explain that to a prosecutor or judge and bring proof, if possible. Examples include:

- You are a victim of bullying at school.
- You are a survivor of domestic violence.
- You are experiencing homelessness.
- You have a disability or are receiving special education services.

(See the TRLA guide called “Defending Children with Disabilities”).

Just because one of these issues is relevant to your case does not mean a prosecutor or judge will choose to automatically dismiss your charge.

9) What if the “victim” agrees that my case should be dropped?

A prosecutor may be willing to dismiss charges against you if the “victim,” often called the “complaining witness” (CW), agrees that the case against you should be dropped. (If you got into a fight, the CW is probably the person whom you fought.) If the CW agrees that you should not face charges for Disorderly Conduct, politely ask him or her to sign a document called a Statement of Non-Prosecution saying so. If possible, have the CW’s signature notarized. You can usually find a notary public at a bank, lawyer’s office, or shipping center. TRLA may be able to help you with that process if you are eligible for our services. Even if you are not eligible, you may use the form in this guide.

You can often find the name and contact information for the CW in your court file. There are many situations where the CW may agree to help you:

- The CW was not offended by your actions; it was just horseplay between friends.
- The CW was offended by your actions but does not want to testify in court or thinks that you should not have been criminally charged.
- Both you and the CW are being charged with Disorderly Conduct, you both agree that neither of you should be charged, and it is the first time either of you has been charged with Disorderly Conduct.

Be smart. If you ask the CW to sign the statement and he or she says “no,” calmly walk away and do not argue. Never pressure or threaten a CW. Doing so may lead to a new charge against you!

A Statement of Non-Prosecution will likely help you, but a prosecutor does not have to dismiss your case. The prosecutor may double check that the CW agreed that the charges against you should be dropped, and then decide whether to dismiss.

10) What if a prosecutor does not dismiss my case or makes me a bad offer?

You can go to trial. For help, call TRLA at 1-888-988-9996. If you plan to ask TRLA for help, do so sooner rather than later. TRLA usually cannot help at the last minute.

11) What happens if I plead guilty or no contest?

There can be many consequences if you plead guilty or no contest. Some possible consequences are:

- Fines up to $500 – you have a right to ask the court to waive the fine and other costs if they would cause hardship to you.
- Court costs – these are separate from the fine.
- Requirement to perform community service
- Requirement to attend an anger management class or other counseling program
- Deferred Disposition, which cannot extend beyond 180 days

12) What is Deferred Disposition?

If your case is not dismissed right away, the prosecutor might offer you “Deferred Disposition.” Deferred Disposition allows you to resolve your case without a final conviction on your record. It is a form of dismissal that first requires you to meet certain conditions like community service or payment of a fine. You will have a deadline to complete these conditions. If you complete the conditions, the judge dismisses your case. You may then say you were not convicted of the charge.

Sometimes the court will give you extra time to complete the conditions of your Deferred Disposition. If you need extra time, you should ask the court for an extension before your deadline has passed.

If you fail to complete the conditions, a judge may hold a hearing where you will have an opportunity to show good cause why you could not complete the conditions. The judge may decide to give you more time. If not, he or she may order a punishment (for example, a fine, community service, or both).

13) How do I avoid a fine or court cost I cannot afford to pay?

You may request a waiver of the fine, court cost, or both, by talking with a prosecutor or judge. To show that you cannot afford to pay, you can fill out and bring to court a Request for Waiver of Fines and Costs to show the prosecutor or judge. You may use the form included in this guide. You can also offer to perform community service instead of paying fines.

You should tell the prosecutor or judge if there are good reasons why you cannot pay a fine or court costs. Some good reasons might be that you or your family members:

- are unemployed or make minimum wage.
- have a health problem and need expensive medical care.
- have a lot of debt.

The court may allow you to pay at a later date or waive the fine or court costs if your family is unable to pay. If the court orders you to pay a fine or court cost and you do not pay, the court can treat your failure to pay as a violation of a court order.

14) How do I avoid being ordered to do community service I cannot complete?

You should tell the prosecutor or judge if there are good reasons why you cannot complete community service. Some good reasons might be that:

- You do not have time because you care for your siblings or others.
- You do not have reliable transportation to get you to a community service site.
- You are currently involved in several extracurricular or volunteer activities, and community service would take away from the work you already do. (If so, bring in letters of support from an adult supervisor.)

Now, take a deep breath. You can do this. Good luck with your case!
